." "I don't know much about girls. I haven't met any." "I don't think you'd like girls." "Why's that?" "Because girls aren't like that. You know, pretty." "I'm not pretty." "Yes, you are." "Nah. I think the last time I wore heels, I was nine, and the only thing I ever wanted to do was climb trees. And the next thing I knew, my shoes were so old and worn out, they were falling apart. Just like my ass." My mother said nothing, but I could feel her embarrassment through the phone. "Ma, do you think I'm pretty?" "Yes, of course." "Well, do I wear heels?" "You wear whatever makes you comfortable. I know you're a very independent girl. I'm very proud of you. I just don't want you to be a kid your whole life." "You mean, I should marry someone and not live alone?" "No. All I'm saying is that when your life is over, if that's the way it plays out, your children will miss you, your mother will miss you, and I'll miss you. If you decide not to go out and find someone, you can still have friends and family and a life here. I have not asked you to marry anyone, but I have asked you to please consider the consequences of living on your own." "You mean, if I'm dead?" "If you're dead, of course it will be horrible, but I don't want you to live your life thinking that you have to make sacrifices to be happy or else something will happen to you, because nothing will happen to you. I want you to have a nice life. That's all I'm asking." "Then I'll marry someone who will love me and take care of me." "That Prosthetic valve endocarditis: course, treatment and outcome in 127 cases. Endocarditis caused by a mechanical valve was diagnosed in 127 patients at National Taiwan University Hospital during the period 1982 to 1992. The purpose of this study was to assess the long term outcome and the impact of treatment on valve function. The average interval between the initial evaluation and the diagnosis of endocarditis was 22.6 +/- 23.6 months and the average interval from the diagnosis of endocarditis to the initiation of treatment was 20.1 +/- 18.3 months. The vegetation was successfully removed in 106 patients. The early mortality rate was 7%. Follow up was complete in 97% of the patients for a mean period of 89.5 +/- 27.7 months. Late mortality was noted in 27 patients (17.8%). Eleven patients required reoperation, including four for heart failure and seven for valve insufficiency. All reoperative patients had received antibiotic treatment for at least 3 months and/or valve function had improved. The actuarial survival rate at 10 and 15 years after surgery was 97.2% +/- 1.7% and 73.9% +/- 6.3%, respectively. In the absence of active infection, valve function, as measured by the area of regurgitation, remained normal and was significantly improved after surgery. Mechanical valve endocarditis leads to a high early morbidity and mortality but long term follow up indicates a good overall outcome, with few cases requiring reoperation. The valve function remains satisfactory for patients who have undergone successful surgery. As water continues to rise after the failure of a dike, residents in Venice say they are starting to realize a dire future may be coming, but they are not sure what to do about it.
